

Abstract of the Disclosure:

The semiconductor component has ESD protective elements configured outside the semiconductor body. The ESD protective elements connect an additional conductor track that carries a reference potential to conductor tracks of the leadframe. ESD protective structures integrated on the semiconductor body are no longer required. The correspondingly high area consumption is avoided.

10

MPW/nt